DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USP 6,193,808 (Decker) in view of EP 057 757 A1 ('757).

Decker discloses a portal washing facility comprising two portals (A,B) each portal having a height-adjustable horizontal washing brush (3), vertical side brushed (5) are movably supported in the first gantry A transversely to the portals direction of travel. The portals also include vertical high-pressure spraying devices (8) which are disclosed to spray the sides of the vehicle as the portals traverse the vehicle. The Decker patent does not disclose that the spray devices (8) move transversely to the movement of the portals.

Art Unit: 1744

The EP patent disclose vertical high-pressure spraying device (8,9) which spray the side of the vehicles and also move transversely to the movement of the portal for spraying the front and rear of the vehicle. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to replace the spraying device (8) in Decker with the devices (8,9) in the EP patent for the known advantage of spraying the front and rear of the vehicle.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USP 6,193,808 (Decker) in view of WO 01/85505.

Decker discloses a portal washing facility comprising two portals (A,B) each portal having a height-adjustable horizontal washing brush (3), vertical side brushes (5) are movably supported in the first gantry A transversely to the portals direction of travel. The portals also include vertical high-pressure spraying devices (8) which are disclosed to spray the sides of the vehicle as the portals traverse the vehicle. The Decker patent does not disclose that the spray devices (8) move transversely to the movement of the portals. The WO publication disclose vertical high-pressure spraying device (20) which spray the side of the vehicles and also move transversely to the movement of the portal for spraying the front and rear of the vehicle. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to replace the spraying device (8) in Decker with the devices (20) in the WO patent for the known advantage of spraying the front and rear of the vehicle.
